

Fine Arts Fees Grants

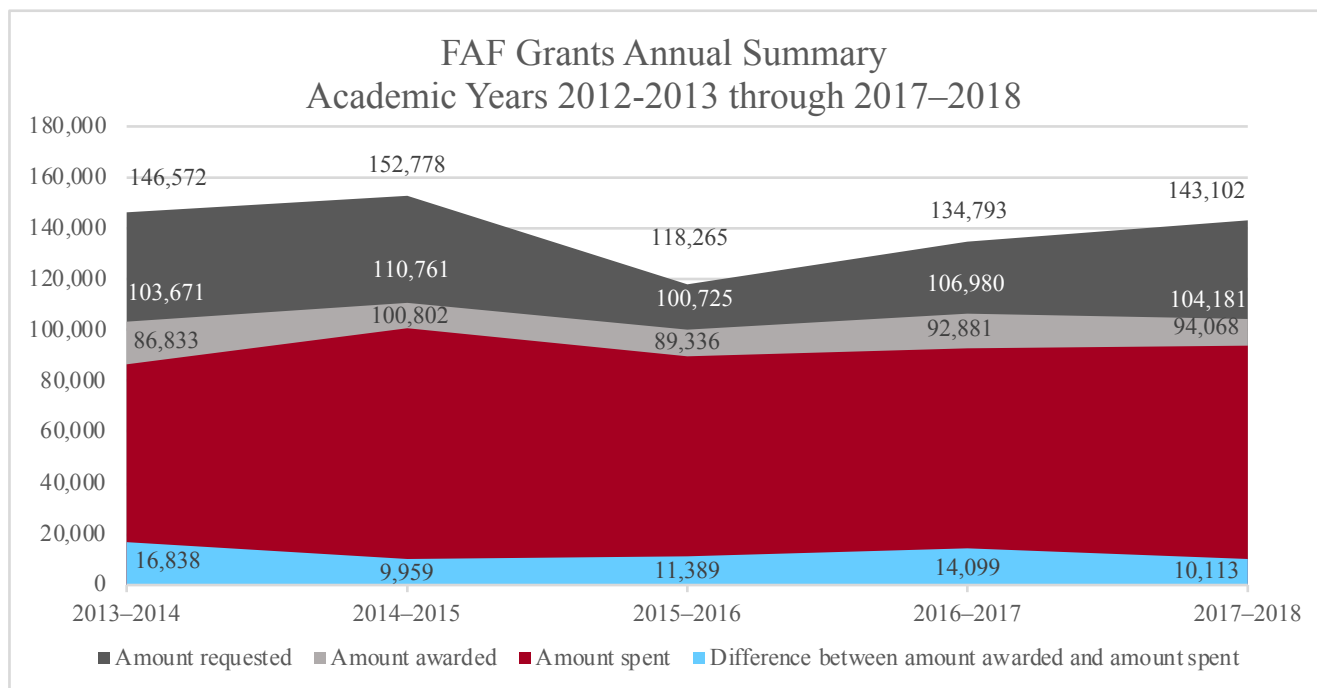

The Fine Arts Fees Grants (FAF Grants) program runs based on funding pulled from a part of the fine arts fee assessed to every student paying tuition at the University of Utah. This fine arts fee pays for the Arts Pass program, offering matriculated university students free or discounted admission tickets to campus arts events, in addition to funding the FAF Grants program from the fine arts portion of the ASUU student group fees. FAF Grants are awarded only to CFA sponsored student groups running student-driven projects.

Overview

FAF Grants funding is available to all sponsored and registered student groups in the College of Fine Arts (CFA) at the University of Utah. Grants support only student-driven non-credit activities that enhance students’ learning and experiences by facilitating, delivering, and creating extra-curricular events, programs, and opportunities for students, the university, and its community. The FAF Grants program is run by a FAF Grants Committee, which is comprised of 15-18 CFA student leaders selected by their peers to represent the students in the college. Students organize requests for funding in the form of a grant that includes both a written proposal and fully outlined budget for each project; the committee is given $95,000 annually plus the carry forward from the previous year. The committee must determine, based upon the proposals and in-person defenses, how to divide the funding among student-driven activities, travel, hosting master artists, performances, and more. Projects must originate in the CFA, have a faculty member advisor, and gain approval from its hosting department; however, students from any college may be involved in the projects.

For more information on eligibility and restrictions on use of FAF Grants funding, please visit the FAF Grants website.
